

NAME CHANGE FROM 2009!

Perspectives in Public Health

Formerly the Journal of the Royal Society for the Promotion of Health

Published in Association with the Royal Society for Public Health

Honorary Editor

Heather Hartwell Bournemouth University, UK

Managing Editor

Caitlyn Donaldson The Royal Society for Public Health, UK

Perspectives in Public Health supports the Royal Society for Public Health's membership, creating a forum for high quality discussion on all aspects of public health. The journal publishes themed issues on the major health challenges of the 21st century, including obesity, nutrition, the built environment, food safety, and sanitation.

The journal offers:

- A broad perspective on the wider determinants of health
- A mix of papers from professional practitioners and research academics
- An international scope

The Royal Society for Public Health (RSPH) was formed in October 2008 as a result of a merger between the Royal Society of Health and the Royal Institute of Public Health. This merged organization is the oldest multidisciplinary public health membership body in the world. Visit www.rsph.org.uk to find out more.
